General marking principles

Always apply these general principles. Use them in conjunction with the detailed/specific marking instructions, which identify the key features required in candidates' responses.

a Always use positive marking. This means candidates accumulate marks for the demonstration of relevant skills, knowledge and understanding; marks are not deducted for errors or omissions.

b If a candidate response does not seem to be covered by either the principles or detailed/specific marking instructions, and you are uncertain how to assess it, you must seek guidance from your team leader.

c Candidates gain marks for specific skills, knowledge and understanding. Award marks for using different functions and features of a variety of IT applications in the following areas:

Spreadsheet — 20 marks (+/- 4 marks)

- using a range of simple, complex and advanced formulae to perform calculations and summarise information
- using a range of simple, complex and advanced functions to manipulate and analyse information

Database — 20 marks (+/- 4 marks)

- searching and sorting information using a range of criteria
- presenting information

Word processing — 20 marks (+/- 4 marks)

- layout and presentation of information
- integration of information from other IT applications

Communication — 10 marks (+/- 2 marks)

- presenting/disseminating information to different audiences

d Layouts
Marks will be awarded for a wide variety of layouts used in word processing and desktop publishing tasks. Candidates will not be penalised for applying a layout to a document that is different to one that has been supplied in the detailed Marking Instructions. The over-riding principle is that a document must be 'fit-for-purpose'.

e Formulae
It is possible for candidates to use a variety of different formulae to resolve the problem and provide the information needed in the spreadsheet. Marks will be awarded where a formulae has been used that provides the correct answer, the formulae provided in the Marking Instructions is not the only correct answer.

f Printouts
Candidates are clearly directed, within the instructions, as to the printing requirements. Where a printout for a task is missing, marks will be awarded on any available alternative printout.

g Keying-in
Marks will be awarded for every block of text that is accurately keyed in. This will be for approximately every 25 words. Flags may be included where appropriate to identify where marks are awarded.

h Marking codes
Marking codes may be provided in the marking instructions for markers to use to identify what they are awarding marks for, to help with the quality assurance of marking.

THE FUTURE OF CRUISE TRAVEL

Cruise travel is entering a new era defined by innovation, sustainability, and personalisation. As holidaymakers seek more meaningful and immersive experiences, the cruise industry is responding with ships designed not only for comfort and entertainment but also for exploration and connection. Tomorrow's voyages will be less about transportation and more about creating unforgettable journeys tailored to individual passions and lifestyles.

One of the most significant trends shaping the future is the drive toward sustainability. New generations of cruise ships are being built with advanced green technologies - such as cleaner fuels, energy-efficient systems, and waste-reduction programmes - that minimise environmental impact while preserving the pristine destinations they visit. Guests can look forward to sailing with a clear conscience, knowing their adventures are aligned with global efforts to protect the planet.
Technology is also playing a central role in the cruise experience of the future. From smart staterooms and app-based service requests to virtual shore excursions and AI-driven itinerary planning, ships are becoming more connected and seamless than ever before. These innovations ensure that holidaymakers enjoy greater convenience, personalisation, and flexibility throughout their journey.

Finally, the destinations themselves are evolving. Tomorrow's cruises will go beyond traditional itineraries, offering deeper cultural encounters, exclusive boutique ports, and curated excursions that provide authentic local experiences. For travel agents, this means new opportunities to offer clients unique adventures that combine luxury with discovery. The future of cruise travel is bright, promising voyages that are more responsible, more innovative, and more inspiring than ever.

DESTINATIONS

On the next page you will find the itinerary of the Spring/Summer European Cruise Itinerary for the Ocean Majesty.

However, when the chill of winter settles over Europe, Ocean Majesty will move to sunnier shores. Winter sailings transport guests from grey skies to golden beaches, where warm breezes and sparkling seas create the ideal backdrop for relaxation and adventure. For those seeking to trade scarves for swimsuits, winter cruises deliver the promise of sunshine all year round.

Popular routes will take holidaymakers to the Caribbean, where palm-fringed islands like Barbados, St Lucia, and Antigua offer pristine beaches, vibrant culture, and crystal-clear waters perfect for snorkelling or sailing. Similarly, the Canary Islands provide a convenient option for European holidaymakers, with volcanic landscapes, charming villages, and pleasant year-round temperatures.

Winter cruises to warmer regions not only promise comfort but also provide a welcome contrast to the European cold. With carefully curated itineraries, world-class service, and unforgettable experiences, they offer the perfect opportunity to rejuvenate body and spirit while exploring some of the world's most captivating destinations.
