Notes to candidates

Before you start to analyse the research, you must select a brief and read the 'Instructions for candidates', which give details of the skills you must demonstrate and the type of evidence you must provide.

You should speak to your teacher or lecturer before you start if you are unclear about what is required for this assessment.

You must:

- draw conclusions from the research
- ensure your specification covers a range of issues such as aesthetics, function, ergonomics, performance and cost
- complete the product design specification on the research and specification pro forma

Design brief 1

The American Streetfood company would like a design proposal for a dessert topping station in the food court, for customers to collect different toppings for their hot and cold desserts.

The proposal needs to hold a range of dessert toppings and other items such as napkins. These should be held and dispensed in a variety of ways and should be accessible by both adults and children.

The company would like the proposal to be inspired by the theme 'American Sweet Treats' and it should be easy for employees to clean and restock.

You can use one or more of the components included in the Assignment task document in the assembly of the proposal.
